Training Course Overview

Competencies serve as a reliable guide in various organizational functions, such as performance management, recruitment and selection, and learning and development. They offer clear, objective expectations for employee behavior, eliminating personal bias or prejudice from the equation.

How can competencies contribute to organizational development in critical areas like recruitment and selection, promotion, retention, and performance? This Anderson training course offers comprehensive insights into the what, where, why, and how of competencies and competence frameworks, providing participants with a thorough understanding of their importance and practical applications.

Training Course Objectives
