

Cultivating Creative Collaboration

Working Together to Produce Better Results

► Training Details

Online Training Course Overview

All too often in business, people and teams have been led to be competitive and to work independently: the very antitheses of creative collaboration! Co-operation and interdependence not competition and independence, lead the way to collaborative working. As business is increasingly more complex, collaboration is needed now more than ever to capitalise on people's diverse talents and creativity to reach goals more effectively, especially in these unusual, challenging Covid times.

This workshop has been designed to look at what practical steps can be taken to improve creative collaboration, achieve goals faster, strengthen teamwork and increase individual enjoyment and performance by working with supportive colleagues.
